

POSITION	Graduate Engineer		24 th May 2023
Reporting to	Design manager
Location	Hall Spars - Breskens, Netherlands Southern Spars UK - Fareham, United Kingdom Future Fibres - Valencia, Spain Southern Spars NZ - Auckland, New Zealand
Working Relationships	External: Customers, suppliers, other group companies Internal: Sales, production, R&D, service and administration
Qualifications	Bachelor of engineering, or higher
Responsibilities	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Operational design engineering: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Customer projects design package in cost effective way. ○ Set manufacturing drawings ○ CAD / CAE • Design & development: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Innovative & proprietary product development ○ Existing product improvement & design brief ○ Manufacturing process design ○ Prototyping • Project & people management: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Deliver projects on-time, in full, to budget ○ Lead and guide technicians & support teamwork ○ Employee best practice project management using SCRUM • Communication/Internal customer management: Progress report and presentations
Competencies	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Proactive, self-starter with engineering background • Comprehensive technical knowledge of the in-house developed proprietary products and design processes • Leadership qualities – ability to lead and deliver results in a highly motivated, demanding environment • Strong project management and organizational skills – output focused • Sharp, action orientated and able to sell ideas convincingly • Sailing experience

This position description shows the key tasks you are expected to perform and is a guideline only.

Please send you application including your CV and cover letter to graduates@futurefibres.com